Portfolio Assessment

Theo Harris
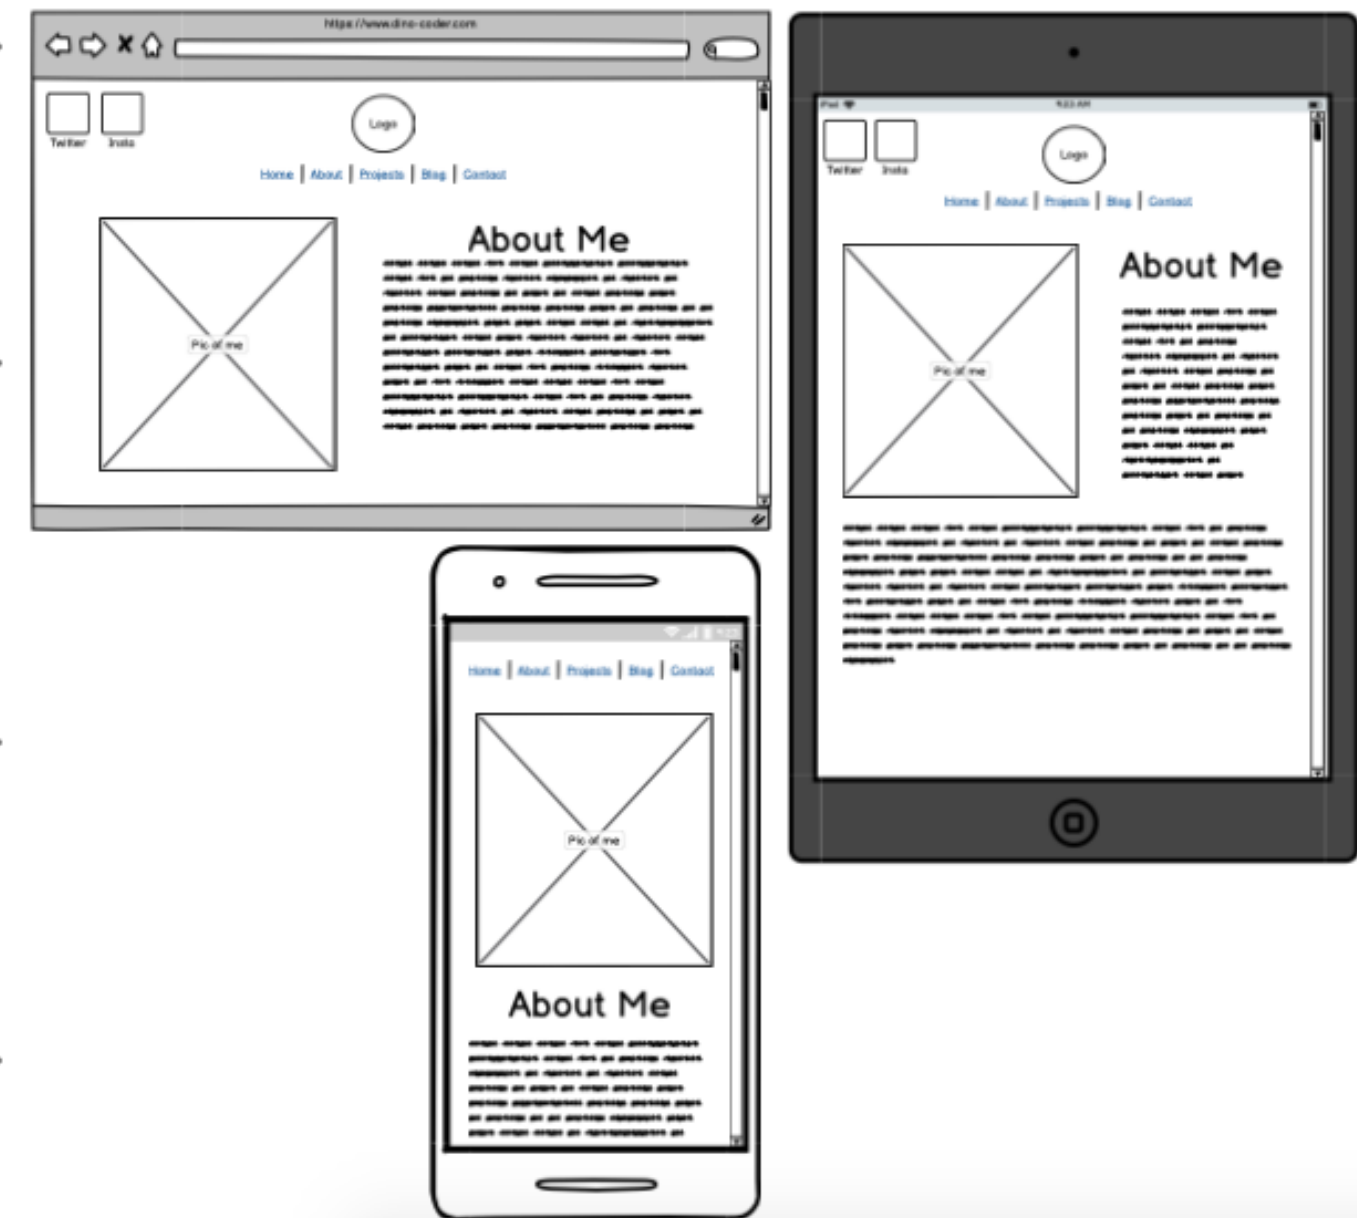

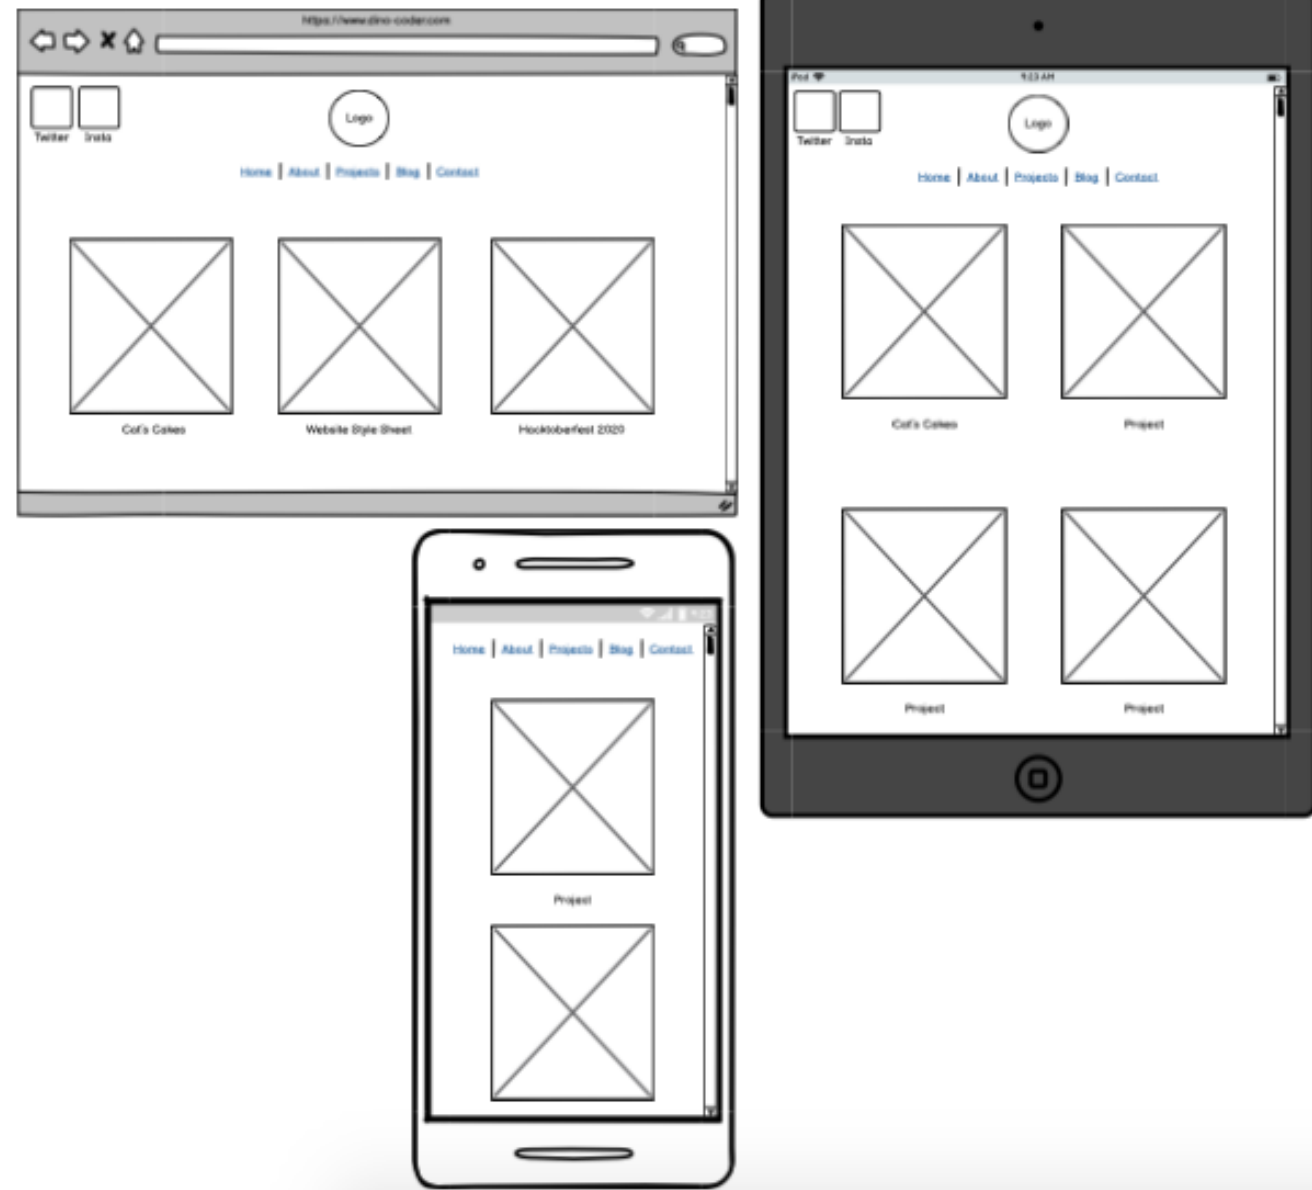

Overview

Wireframes

Landing Page

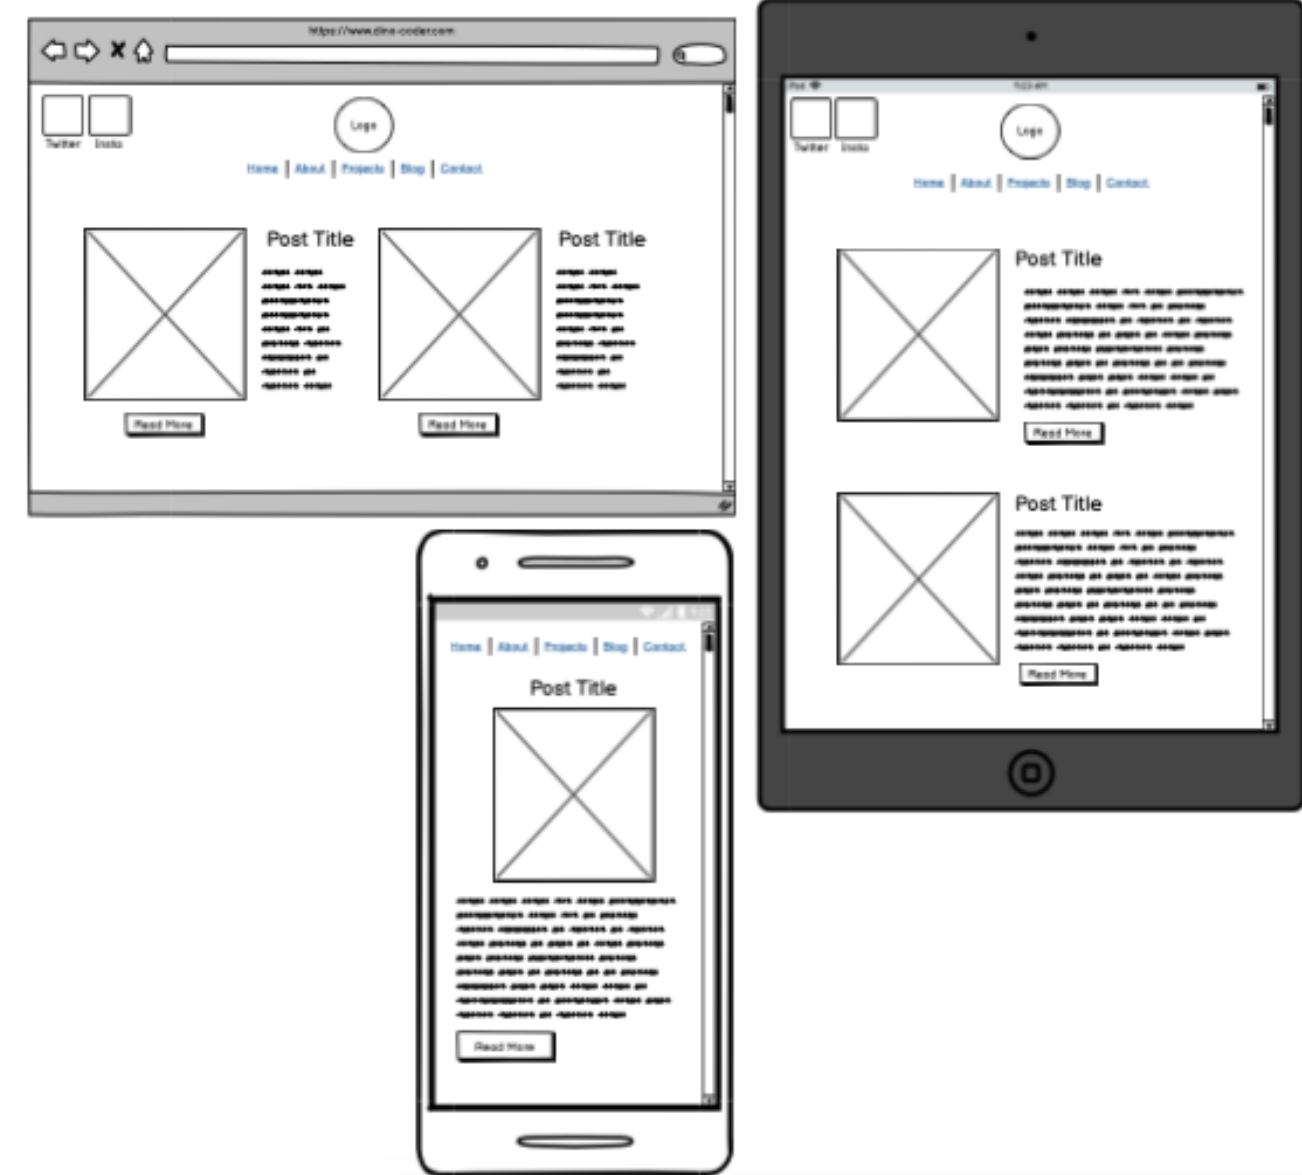

About Page
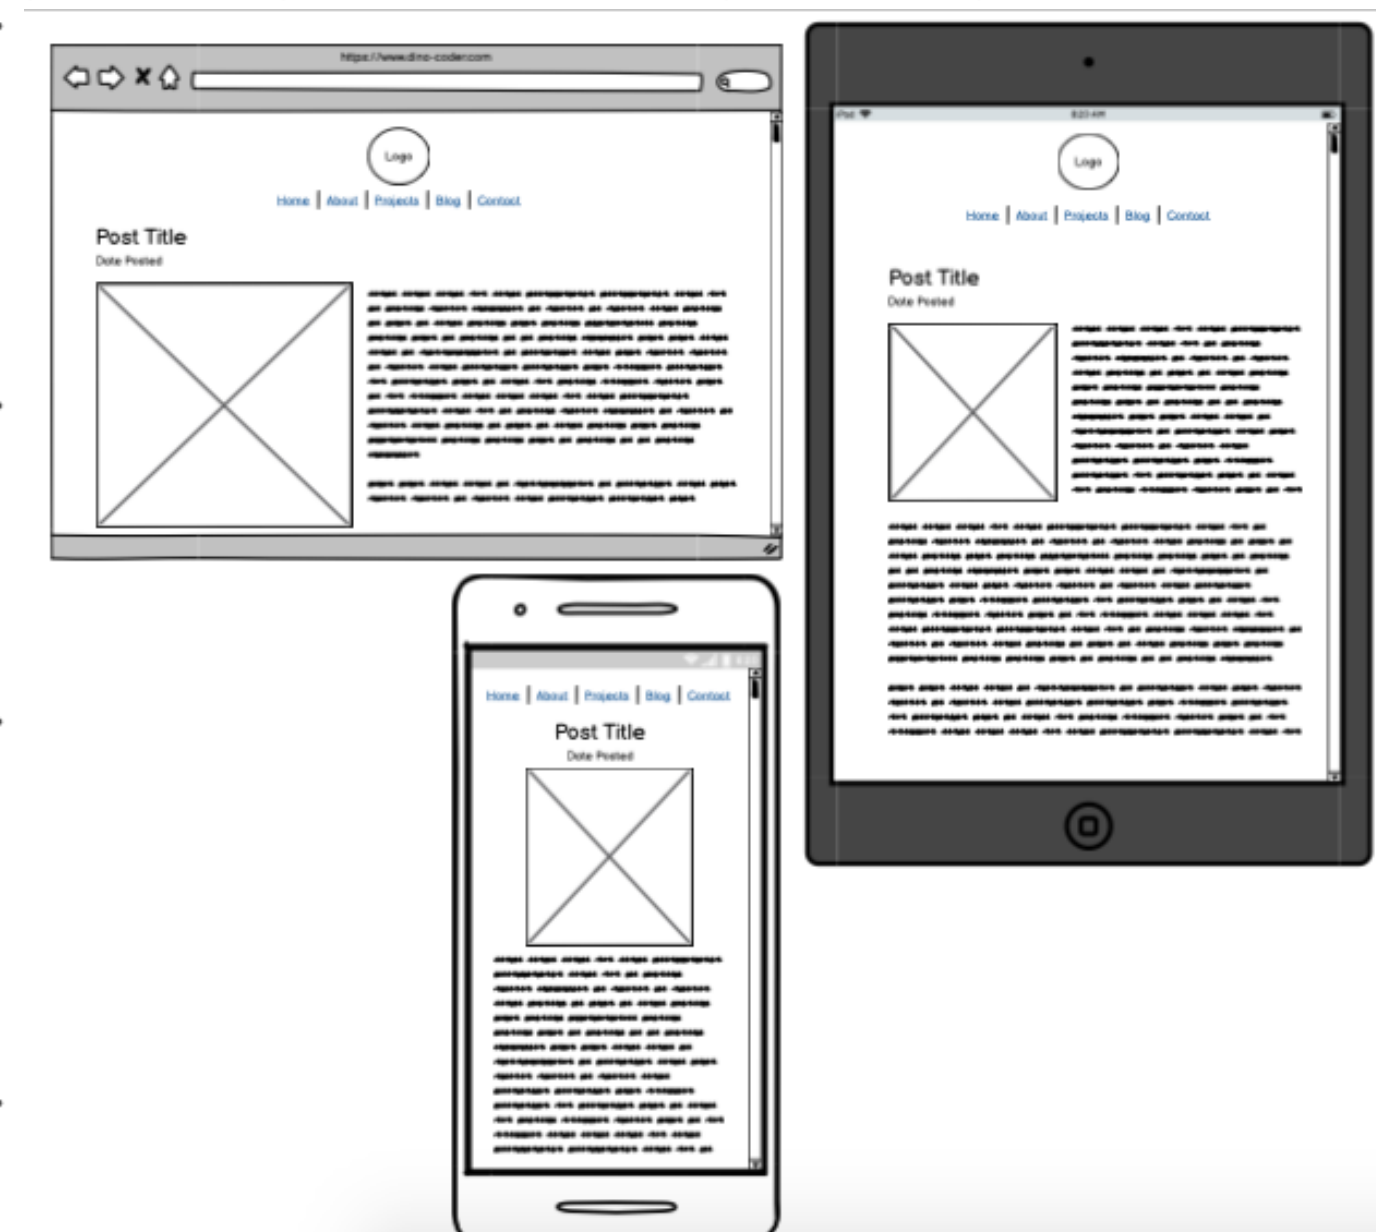

Wireframes

Projects Page

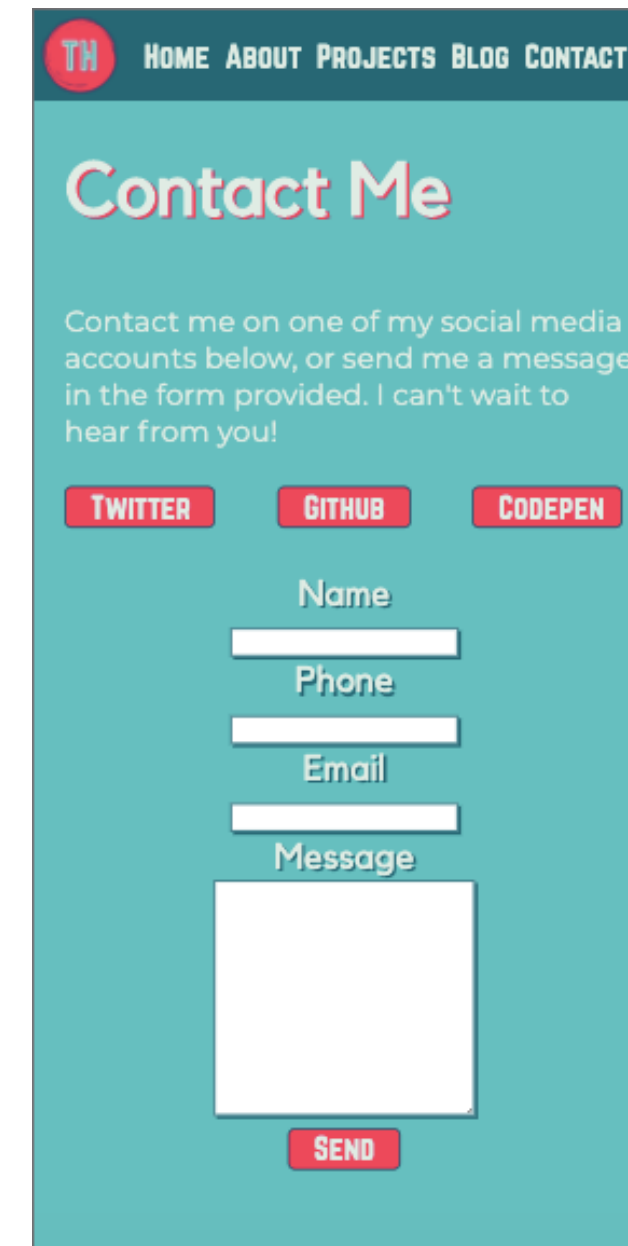

Blog

Wireframes
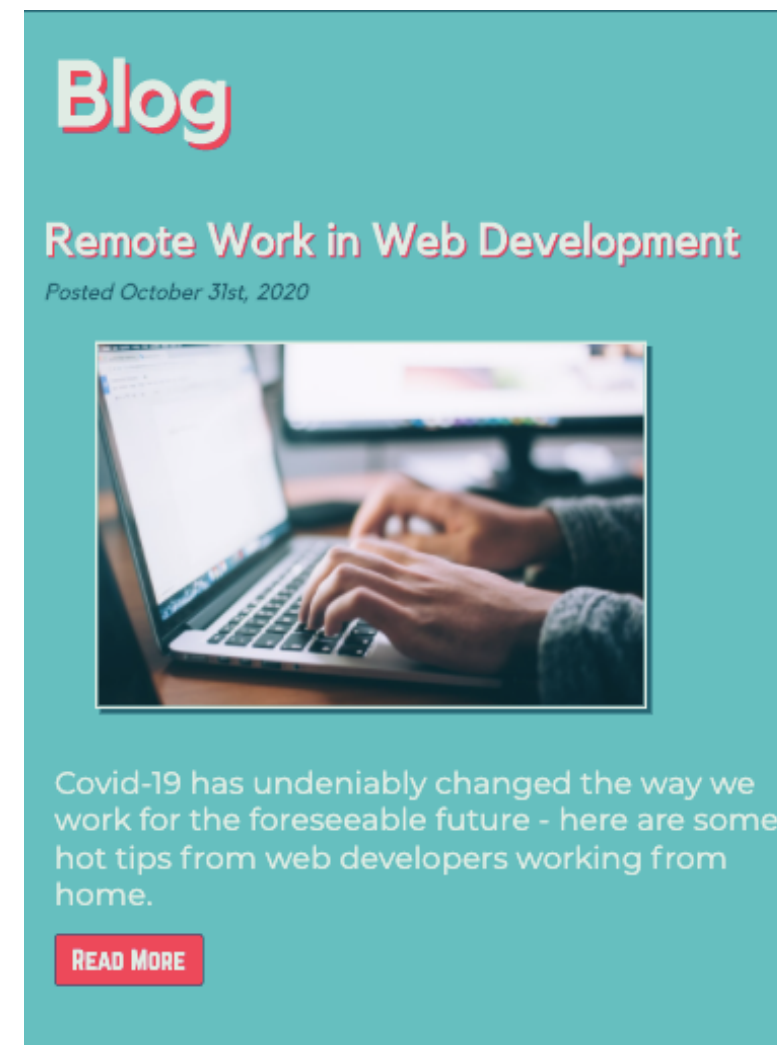

Contact Form

Blog Post

Design Components

I wanted to avoid my site feeling too sterile, but I still wanted to limit the palette to keep it looking professional while using hues that felt energetic and engaging.

I also wanted a simple logo to enhance my personal brand.

To keep the bright and energetic feel, I used free assets from OpenPeeps to create some cartoon images across the site.

Styling Choices

I wanted a cool hue for the main color of my site, and bluish hues are often associated with tech. The magenta creates a kind of "call to action", as red hues are generally considered as "urgent" colors.

My lightest hue was used for the text to bring it forward in the hierarchy of the design. Dark hues were reserved for box-shadow effects to create dimensionality.